New Welfare Laws Expected to Create Hardships for the Elderly

Can a single person live in Princeton — or anywhere in New Jersey — for $142 a month?

That's the agonizing question faced, as of July 1, not only by Princeton residents on welfare, but also by Princeton's two professionals in charge of local welfare, Mrs. Jane Ahrens for the Borough and Miss Anne McQuade for the Township.

New Jersey's new welfare regulations go into effect July 1. (At least, everyone supposes they do, but Miss McQuade revealed this week that the state still hasn't sent around detailed instructions: "All I know is what I read in the papers," she says.)

Two new laws have been passed, on the recommendation of the task force appointed by Governor William Cahill. The first law wipes out the system that allowed welfare to supplement the income of a working man who couldn't make ends meet, the man with seven or eight children earning $70 a week, for example. The purpose of this old law was to keep families from splitting up because previously a mother with children could collect more than she could if a man were in the house.

In its place is the new "assistance to families of the working poor."

Under this new law, father and mother must be married legally to each other and have natural or adopted children, all of whom must be under 18 to qualify. A high-school student, age 18, cannot receive help in such a family. The father must apply for work and be willing to accept training for a job or for upgrading a job.

Also, the family income must be less than standards set up by the state's Division of Public Welfare. These standards allow an income two-thirds that of a family with only one parent, receiving aid to dependent children.

Applicants are required to pay back welfare monies, which are regarded as "a debt to the state of New Jersey." Both parents must sign this agreement.

The second law reduces payments for all welfare assistance. If a single person's income, from Social Security or any other source, is more than $142 a month, the person is ineligible for any welfare at all, regardless of his living costs.

The effect of the new "working poor" law Mrs. Ahrens believes, will be to force fathers to leave home, because mothers will be eligible for more money if they are in the one-parent, Aid-to-Dependent children category.

In Princeton, however, both Mrs. Ahrens and Miss McQuade believe it will be the elderly, both single and couples who will suffer most.

To start with, Social Security went up just as the welfare ceiling was lowered. Mrs. Ahrens, from her case files, draws a composite, hypothetical case of an elderly widow who used to get Social Security, around $160 a month. Mercer County Welfare supplemented this with $22 a week for rent. Since the single room had no kitchen, an additional $79 a month was provided for restaurant meals, plus $10 for personal incidentals.

As of July 1, however, this

School Board, Teachers and Staff Chew on Bones of Contention

School board and school staff both say they "learned a lot" from three executive meetings held during the past week at the request of William Bus, president of the PREA (teachers' association) to discuss what Mr. Bus called "abrupt changes" in the school system. "We're not witch-hunting, we just want the board to know how we feel and we want to start September with a clean slate," Mr. Bus commented after the meetings were over.

I hope they understand that the board will be more concerned in the future with their

This Is Princeton

"feelings," said board vice president Henry Pownser. "The school board shows the concern of the faculty and understands their anxiety and wants to give them more room to communicate in the future."

At the first meeting, June 22, seven of the nine board members were present. Robert Bierman (president) and Philip Cruckshank absent. Also invited, at Mr. Bus's request, were the PREA executive committee, most of whom came, and all members of the PREA — the administrators' association.

Attendance dwindled for the two subsequent meetings and at the final one Monday, when the board members present were George Fitzgerald, Hannah Fox and Dr. Pownser.

Six items on Agenda. Mr. Bus presented an agenda of six items. The sixth, "morale," was the most significant, he said, and lay behind the high school teachers' vote of no confidence June 16 on Superintendent Philip E. McPherson.

The agenda follows:

1. Grievances, Mr. Bus declined to discuss grievances filed formally. He did say that if the PREA were concerned on various matters, many grievances might never come to a head.

The PREA protested the procedure in which Alfred Seitz was named Acting Principal almost immediately when Florence Burke resigned. The PREA contract requires that available positions be advertised among the staff. Dr. Pownser acknowledged that technically, the contract had been violated, but he cited the emergency nature of the situation. It would have been awkward, he suggested, to ask Miss Burke to hold off on her resignation until the machinery could be set in motion.

If the board had explained the situation to the PREA and said we just didn't have time, I think there could have been a consensus and the PREA would have been more comfortable," Dr. Pownser said.

Mr. Bus reminded the board of a "talent bank" he has long wanted. Staff resumes could simply be fed into a computer, and emergency positions filled in a hurry.

Who's in Charge in July? The staff is also concerned about the arrival date of the new PHS principal, Patricia Wertheimer. Mr. Seitz is "acting" only until July 1, and it is rumored that the new principal won't be fully on deck until August. What happens?

The board will have the superintendent personally responsible," Dr. Pownser said, the PREA, implying that it is a staff matter between board and superintendent and no concern of the PREA. He acknowledged again, however, that fuller communication would have eased PREA anxiety about the new principal's

The question of George Pettillo, Director of Guidance, was something both board and PREA skirted around. "Mr. Bus said Mr. Pettillo has met privately with the board to discuss his removal as Director of Guidance."

2. Conflict of Interest. The PREA wants representatives sitting in on board executive sessions, just as the administrators do. Dr. Charles Huchet, Director of Special Services, and Dr. Constance Vieland, Director of Staff Development, both attend executive sessions with Dr. McPherson.

"Some of the board feel there is merit in having PREA representatives sit in, where areas of discussion are secret," Dr. Pownser stated, "again, it might be helpful for communication purposes with the PREA."

He explained that Dr. Huchet and Dr. Vieland attend, not as administrators who help the superintendent.

3. Working Conditions. Teacher student vandalism, theft, and extreme absenteeism especially in the Middle School and high school, as contributing to difficult working conditions. They also mentioned "lack of respect" shown teachers by students, an area which Mr. Bus admitted would be difficult to judge or to settle.

Speaking of absenteeism, Dr. Pownser said that Miss Burke pointed out to the board that high school seniors have many freedoms. Dr. Pownser observed that students chided for being students during springtime may be on Independent Study programs and at work during other hours of the day.

4. Budget. Mr. Bus reminded the board that the current budget is a hold-the-line proposition, presumably the same budget for each school building as last year. He asked the board who decided each school's budget. He reported that the board had hired administrators came up with a formula. No one in the PREA ever saw it, however, he charged.

The PREA also questions the dollar savings in recent administrative changes. Dr. McPherson has estimated that several thousand a year will be saved.

Mr. Bus selected the Director of Physical Education as an example. Staff salary calculations showed an actual saving of only $250, with a possible loss of gain if the person involved since he will be working only ten months instead of 12.

When teachers were dropped for reasons of economy, the PREA asked that administrators be cut back, too. Dr. Pownser said this has not been done.

Early Deadline Set

Because of the Independence Day holiday Monday, TOWN TOPICS' deadline for display advertising in the next issue will be 5 p.m. Friday, July 6. Classified advertising must be changed or cancelled by that time but new classified ads will be accepted until 5 p.m. Tuesday. New material should be submitted as early as possible.

5. "The Learning Community." The PREA wonders whether the 200 students who will be in the Community this fall are a cross-section of the high school. How many black students will be present, Mr. Bus asked. The organization also questions methods for selecting teachers, and Mr. Bus said several teachers who volunteered were not accepted. He said criteria should have been posted.

The PREA is also uneasy about potential dropouts from the Community. If students leave, the class load of Community teachers will be lower than the load other teachers have to carry.

Conclusions. In overall discussion of the three meetings, Dr. Pownser repeatedly said that things would have been much smoother if there had been more communication and more information.

"If Mr. Bus had had enough information, he and the PREA might not have been before the board," he suggested. He said that either the PREA wasn't told, in various instances, or it received wrong information, honestly given but wrong nevertheless.

"So often, they were told after a thing had happened," he continued, "and respected their feeling that if they'd known, life would have been smoother."

To charges that the board didn't have enough "input" from teachers and administrators in regard to high school matters, Dr. Pownser replied that the board feels it did have input from the principal of the high school to the superintendent, to the board.

Dr. Pownser said he regards this as a "sensible structure" that works in every school except the high school. Actions taken by the board on administrative matters were "legitimate," he said. The board must lean heavily on its superintendent and the people he gets advice from.

Mr. Bus said he expects a written statement from the board of reply at its August 3 public meeting.

woman will receive $40 for all expenses. In Princeton, there are very few rooms with kitchens, and eating out is prohibitively expensive. Rental units are scarce and rent will eat up most of the $42. Borough or Township can provide nothing toward regular expenses for such persons. If they need medical help, a Homemaker, maybe, the Borough and the Township will be allowed to pay.

Mrs. Ahrens sees a loophole, however, in the original welfare law ("Title 44"), all on the books. "Title 44" says that if there is "need," it must be provided. "Local welfare will have to supplement," she says.

On the Borough's books are several cases like this one: a disabled man has no income and lives with his daughter. She had to quit her job to care for him.

Under the law, she could be declared an "essential person" in the family, eligible for a home. (The state felt it was cheaper to pay her then to put the man in a nursing home.) As of July 1, however, there is no longer an "essential person" category.

Give What Is Needed. Under the new law, this man will receive $11 a month. Before welfare met his actual expenses.

The state believes it's fairer to pay flat payments, but Mrs. Ahrens believes it gives a person actually need. "If Mr. Smith needs only $20 and Peter Jones needs $50, why give both $40?" is her question.

Budget regulations begin to loom for both Borough and Township under the new regulations.

A man in a Princeton nursing home received $50 in Social Security, but Mrs. Ahrens nursing home bill of $600 a month. He collected disability pay from Mercer County amounting to $450, but the state got back half that $450 from the Federal Government. The remaining half, Mercer County paid only $20 and the state 75%.

Under the new rules, the man isn't eligible for any county help at all, so the municipality, Borough or Township, must pick up the $450 a month. New Jersey pays back 75% of that $450.

Municipalities the Losers. One welfare director used this case history to illustrate two points: the new laws are not necessarily going to save the state any money and they are almost certainly going to cost the municipalities money.

Also, medical and health needs, which Borough and Township are clearly allowed to meet, are very expensive costs indeed, even higher than Princeton rents. Licensed practical nurse, nursing homes, and so on, guarantee a very high cost per case, welfare directors warn.

In another category, the Borough (and probably the Township) will pick up the aid to those 18-year-old high school students no longer eligible under the new "working poor" law. These 18-year-olds will receive a food allowance of $30.40 a month set by the state as enough to feed an 18-year-old for one month.

The amount depends on the size of the youth's family. If he's the oldest of four, for example, the allowance for him will be only $33. He will also receive $10.70 a month for personal incidentals.

The state does allow municipalities to make such payments in some communities. Mrs. Ahrens says, the welfare director would tell the 18-year-old to quit school and get a job, "but we wouldn't do that in the Borough."

Welfare Not Permanent. Broadly speaking, in this community, welfare is a temporary thing, say both Miss McQuade and Mrs. Ahrens. Many singles are middle-aged or college men or young graduate students with psychiatric problems who qualify as "medical indigents."

"The single men aren't on welfare long—six to eight weeks," Miss McQuade says. After a physical at Princeton Hospital, the man is helped toward a job, dishwashing in a restaurant, work as janitor or helper on a garbage truck.

In 1970, the Township paid out $6,393.96 to 59 individuals and Mrs. McQuade saw 283 cases. Borough costs are higher because in 1970 the Borough began paying Princeton Hospital directly. The Borough a count for that year was $11,579, with cash or direct payments to a drugstore or a landlord for $7 individuals and of that sum, about $5,000 went to the hospital.

Since 1969, family cases have been handled by Mercer County. Towns handle only individuals or childless couples. Housing is the biggest problem ($2 a week for one room with no cooking) but Princeton landlords apparently don't charge more for a welfare client than for anybody else. Welfare clients, so far, have been sent to the Nassau Inn.

Some Highly Skilled. Many on Borough and Township welfare have a high level of skill and alcoholics are frequently men who have broken under the pressures of high-level jobs.

Also, peculiar to a town like Princeton are men 50 and 60 years old, black and white, who have worked all their lives at the brain jobs that are not covered by Social Security.

These Gardner, domestic, household jobs no longer exist on the grand scale. Big houses do not have so many domestic and gardeners; the University's eating clubs don't hire as much help. A new wave of workers from Puerto Rico are willing to work for less money, and older men and women are out of jobs and welfare to pick out meager pension from former employers.

Welfare abuse doesn't seem to be a Princeton problem, both welfare directors agree. They see elderly men coming to welfare as a last resort or husband-less women cut off from welfare when the youngest child reaches 18, untrained because they have cared for children instead of working, and now too old to be trained for a job, coming to welfare only because the last dish washing job fell through.

"I am distressed by the negative attitude the public takes toward welfare," is Mrs. Ahrens' comment. "I haven't seen any more cheaters on welfare than you find in any other walk of life."

Whether the welfare abuse which state officials say they have found in other communities will be eliminated by the new laws is a question. One thing is certain in Princeton: the new regulations will bring new problems, both to residents on welfare and their professional directors.

Referendum Planned on Question of Pay for Borough Council

It's up to Borough voters to decide whether their Councilmen will be paid $750 a year. The proposal to pay Councilmen was voted down at a special Council meeting Monday night, but Councilman Robert Hendry promised to introduce in August a measure which will put the proposal on the November ballot.

The mayor fared better. After denying Councilmen pay at all, Councilmen voted to raise the mayor's pay from $500 to $1,000, by a 42 vote. Mayor Robert W. Cawley was embarrassed; he did not favor the ordinance. Councilmen John Strange and Martin P. Lombardo voted "no."

The usual arguments were heard again. This is the third time that $750 has been discussed. Mr. Hendry observed that, although some kind of expense money does exist, most Councilmen are reluctant to submit expense vouchers "for obvious political reasons."

From the audience, Mrs. J. Stuart Hunter, 100 Bayard Lane, suggested a list of legitimate Council expenses "so that people won't run up bills on trips they initiate themselves. There should be advice and consent on the part of other Councilmen for things like trips to Washington," she stated.

Councilman Charles Cornforth repeated his firm opposition. "Not one bit of evidence shows that Council would incur tract better public servants if there were a paycheck, he declared.

Then Councilman Joseph Moore, whose idea it was to pay Councilmen, repeated his point that it was financially impossible for some people to run for office, and although $750 might not make that much difference, he thought it would encourage people to run.

"But I didn't intend this for the political arena, and I would rather withdraw the proposal than have it become political," he said.

"One party finds it a hot potato and wants to get rid of it - that's the only political angle," snapped Mr. Cornforth. He is the only Republican on the six member Council.

Voting proceeded, poker fashion, each Councilman eyeing the others before declaring his hand. Mr. Moore said he was withdrawing his proposal to withdraw, and voted "yes." He was followed by Mr. Lombardo. Mr. Strange passed for that round. Councilman Alice Male joined Mr. Cornforth to vote "no." Mr. Hendry announced that he would abstain. That meant only two "yes" votes. Four "yes" votes were needed to pass the measure, and with Mr. Hendry's absence, the ordinance was already dead. Mr. Strange then threw in his hand and voted "yes."

Town Must Decide. After the vote, Mrs. Male said she wanted a referendum. "This issue must be faced by the community," she declared. "I feel very strongly that a salary makes a difference. The $750 could mean tuition for a child. I know of one person who could not run for office because he would have to give up a second job. We miss the contributions of some parts of the community."

Want to Park Overnight?

Car owners who want to take advantage of the new Borough overnight parking system may go to Borough Hall and sign up. The charge is $3 a month. Car owners may choose from the Park Place, Chambers Street or Public Library-Spring Street lots, and they will be assigned a regular parking space and given a window sticker.

Payment of the fee entitles the owner to park all night until 9 a.m.

When the mayor's salary was on the line, Mr. Lombardo announced that he would introduce an ordinance ending the mayor's entire salary and making everybody on Council a volunteer.

Mr. Hendry, who voted for the mayor's raise, said "I've been associated with a couple of mayors and I know the time and sacrifice they give. Councilmen can see this better than citizens."

Park Overnight. By a 42 vote, Council set $3 as the monthly fee for overnight parking in Park Place, Chambers and Public Library-Spring Street lots. Mr. Cornforth and Mrs. Male voted "no"; they'd like to see at least a $5 fee.

So would Mr. Hendry. But he voted for the $3 anyway. Mayor Cawley said the next morning at his press conference that he warned Mr. Hendry he would break any tie vote with a "yes" simply to get the scheme in the works so that people can begin to park.

Edward Schneider, Democratic mayoralty candidate, said there shouldn't be any fee at all because lots are public land. A fee taxes those least able to pay, he charged. Overnight parking in these lots is designed to help car owners who have no garages and no driveways for parking.

Mr. Hendry, arguing for even more than $5, said "substantial expense" will be involved in cleaning, snow plowing lots and providing police protection. Private overnight parking in driveways or garages, is $15-$20 a month, Councilmen said.

It's not because of hardship that a lower fee should be charged, Mr. Lombardo explained. It's to show people that Council is willing to reverse the trend of "squeezing the taxpayer for every dollar." Mr. Strange, who agreed, added that a lower fee proves Council is sincere about keeping Princeton a balanced community. "We put ourselves in line in support of the little man," he observed.

But Mr. Cornforth charged that a lower fee was the equivalent of giving away Borough property because the charge is below the fair market value of privately-rented overnight parking.

During the fiscal argument, Mr. Lombardo protested that no meeting has yet been held of Council's new Administrative Committee, assigned the job of reviewing budgets. Mr. Cornforth is chairman, succeeding Mr. Hendry.

Mayor Cawley told his press conference that he may prod Mr. Cornforth into calling the committee to meet. Its members are Messrs. Cornforth, Hendry and Lombardo.

Council passed the World Citizenship resolution. (Township Committee did so simultaneously across town) and Princeton is now the east

Wed. fireworks tend to fizzle, and a long holiday weekend marred by rain isn't much good, either.
Nevertheless, June has been an unusually dry month (less than half the normal rainfall was recorded), and the makings of a summer drought are with us. So is summer heat:
temperatures in the 90s are forecast, at least through Friday.

Scattered showers are a part of the picture as long as the heat lasts, but the hope is for a somewhat cooler (and dry) weekend.

swimming facilities get top priority in the recreation complex.

R. Donald Barr, recreation director, said Tuesday that he has plenty of maintenance help, now that school is over and boys can work. The courts
"basically in good shape," he said. Sign-up sheets are now locked inside the courts at night to prevent schedule tampering, he said.

RE-ASSESSMENT SET

No non-resident Visits. Reassessment of Township property will begin shortly, with a completion deadline of November. Committee appropriated $30,000 for the project Monday night and awarded the bid to Nassau Revaluation and Appraisal Company at $14,500.
Other bids were 25,000 and 19,500.

Re-assessment will not involve visits to individual homes, as revaluation did five years ago. Facts already on file in Township offices will be used, according to Mayor James A. Floyd.

A board of real estate agents will scrutinize the reassessments and give advice. Citizens will have the right of appeal.

One of the principals in the law building firm is Stuart Bolton Jr., son of the Township law assessor. Township attorney Gordon Griffin, discussing the question with the state Attorney General's office, ruled that no conflict of interest is involved.

No joint re-assessment will be undertaken with the Borough. Mayor Robert W. Cawley said the Borough's assessor had advised a wait 'till 1972.

RESUMPTION OKAYED

For OK Bar. Theresa Nini, who had operated the OK Bar at 1618 Lytle Street for 30 years without a violation but was forced to close in 1965 because of local trouble, can reopen her doors again.

Mrs. Nini was originally denied permission to resume her business by Borough zoning officer Donald Harney, who cited an ordinance that says when there is no substantial use of a non-conforming business for a year the operation shall be considered to have ceased and revert to a conforming use. The Zoning Board last week reversed his decision.

State law has no such restriction and leaves the time period open as long as the applicant evidenced "good faith" in intending to reopen his business. Attorney Gordon Strauss read several such state court decisions and argued that a local zoning law should not like precedent over a state statute.

Mr. Strauss was able to show that Mrs. Nini had renewed her license every year (now up to $1700 a year); had kept the place heated and lighted during the six-year shutdown, and on advice from Borough Administrator Robert Mooney had not tried to rent it in order to preserve the integrity of her license.
"Obviously, she was under the intention to keep her business," he said.

Opposition. Mrs. John Brown, who told the board she owned property at 28, 3 and 5 Lytle, presented a petition of 32 names, including 35 homeowners, registering their "most heartfelt protest" against the application.

Theodore Lewis, 25 Lytle, also objected, saying there were already two liquor licenses on the street as did the Rev. Marion F. Stokes Jr.,
minister of the Mt. Pisgah Church.

"Mrs. Nini is a wonderful person and we hold her in high est regard," said the Rev. Mr.
Stokes, who said he lives across the street from Mrs. Nini's home at 17 MacClure.

"It's a question of the multi-plexification of the kind of business already concentrated in that area that we object to," Mr. Strauss pointed out, however, that of the two existing licenses, one belongs to American Legion Post 218 and the other to a package store, neither of which, he said, "the public can walk into and buy a drink."

Joint Occupancy Denied. In an application heard the second time, the owners of 1412 Moore street were denied their request to convert a two-story dwelling at that address into an office on the first floor and an upstairs apartment. The board ruled the applicants failed to demonstrate hardship or special reasons why the variances they needed should be granted.

The owners, Serena Weisberg of Mercer Road, Eunice Davis, 27 Vandewater, and Eugene Roberts, 3 Eechy Place, purchased the property last June for $30,000. All testified that they were aware when they bought the half of the duplex house that they needed zoning variances to convert it to office use. Operators of Studio Nine, an Interior Design service, they had hoped to locate their office on the first floor. They presently operate out of a home in Lawrenceville. They are renting the Moore Street property to four students for $275 a month, Mrs. Roberts said.

Attorney Coleman Brennan had asked for variances for off-street parking and open space requirements, plus several bulk reservations, there being no yard on one side. The front yard measures nine feet, the rear yard, five.

The case was remanded to the Board by ruling of a Superior Court judge who said he would not hear an appeal by the applicants without a court reporter's transcript of the hearing. Since there was no transcript of the first hearing, the case had to be heard in its entirety again.

MARRIED 64 YEARS: Mr. and Mrs. Michael McCord observed their 64th wedding anniversary with champagne last week in Princeton Nursing Home. They were married June 24, 1905, in Laneshire, England. Mrs. McCord, 90, and her husband, 91, have lived in this country since 1929 and are former residents of Bound Brook. They have two children still living, a son and a daughter; three grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

THIEF GETS $60

From Theatre Cash Box. Summer Intime had a rack-stole visitor Monday but it wasn't anyone who wanted to hand out accolades.

Borough police report that between 1 and 10 a.m. Monday, someone entered a basement window in Murray Dodge Hall and stole $60 from a cash box. Entry was gained by cutting a screen on a window on the northwest side of the building and then breaking a pane of glass. Sgt. Arthur Gillatt investigated.

Prospect Entered. The same evening, "Prospect" on campus, the former residence of the president, was entered and ransacked.

Nothing is known to be missing at the present time, reported Lt. Michael Carnevale. A kitchen door was forced to gain entry, he said.

$1210 from 45 University Place. Television sets and stereo equipment with a portable color television set belonging to Katherine Becker.

At 11:15 the next morning, Miss Becker told police that she saw a man carrying a television set, who she thought might be one of the suspects, get on a Suburban bus to New York City. She gave police a description.

Borough police then contacted State Police and South Brunswick police to have the bus halted. "There were no results," said Lt. Carnevale.

Four More TVs Taken. Two color television sets, a black and white set, and two radios were reported stolen last week by Township police from the home of Alfred Gardner, 221 Constitution Avenue.

Their combined value was $922. Ptl. John Hammond, who investigated, said that there were no signs of forced entry.

News Of The THEATRES

"Rainmaker" Provides a Delightful Evening

Long before "Love Story" was dawning up interpersonal apologies there existed a thing called romance.
Its characters were serious talking girls, heroes who seemed to have walked out of the sky and extraordinary circumstances thrusting the two together. Untold, they triumphed against all the works of man and God intend to vanquish the match.

The romance delights in the nobility of man and the beauty of woman and the ultimate perfection of their union. The world of the romance is exactly what the movies have taught us: emotionally veridical, semi-charm, dream ridden, lucid.

All of these are reasons for you to say goodbye to this morning's apostrophe, and travel to Murray Theatre where the Summer Intime company has initiated its 1974 season with N. Richard Nashe's "The Rainmaker."
Check the ads for where playing when. Sunday's too!
And good films every Monday and Tuesday.

The company is specially gifted the production is invaluing and the prospects for this warm season indicate that the best theatre in Princeton is happening at Summer Intime. Wise audiences, take note.

Clean Artistry. The work of John Vennema, Deborah Savage, Richard B. Williams, Larry Strickman, Ernest Norris, Daniel Berkowitz, Gilda Pagan, Richard Ferragio, Geoff Peterson, Rush Rehm and others is clearly artistry: professional, sensitive, and involving. You must witness what they do and allow what they make to wrap you with its exceptional style.

About "The Rainmaker."
A true example of our American romance, this charming play propels John Vennema as Starbuck the hard and common to convince Deborah in Savage, the plainly beautiful Lizzie, that people must make chances, that they must grow into personal heads, that being is dreaming. And all of this is done in the drought ridden land that denies the romantic a son as steadfast as it slightly hints is real.

Lizzie's family — Rush
Rehm warm and caring, Richard Ferrugio, awkward and negative, and Andrew

Bloch boyish and very pleasing — alternately warm and embrace her as she begins to learn what Starbuck teaches. And the immediate interesting presence of Ernest Norris as the cool deputy Pile also balances the star-driven confidence of Starbuck. (It occurs to me now that Starbuck is indeed a confidence man; he gives confidence to Lizzie and to himself.)

Through the male players, Lizzie's life becomes the soft focus of this play. Though Miss Savage may tend to make Lizzie too sharply defined and too effusive — thereby obscuring the sweet longing on which I think her character depends — she carries this focus as though she were faced with light.

This play's structure seems to be all uphill: the final

Molding the Clinton production of "Hello Dolly" will be Victor Caspell, who is directing as well as designing the show. Choreography will be by Rande Brenner and Jeffrey Berger will be Musical Director.

Production and Business Manager Harris Goldman has reported several changes and agencies will notice at the Music Hall this summer. The orchestra has been enlarged substantially, the acting company and chorus has been increased, and air conditioning has been installed.

"Hello Dolly" is the story of a warm, open matchmaker, with a mind as sharp as a razor blade. Through the course of the musical, Dolly arranges happy matches for everyone in sight, including herself. The original production opened with Carol Channing in the title role which was then played by Ginger Rogers, Betty Grable, Pearl Bailey, and finally, Ethel Merman.

Following "Hello Dolly" will be "Wait Until Dark," July 15-18; "Your Own Thing," July 21-25; "Carnival," July 28-August 1; "Any Wednesday," August 5-8; "Fiddler on the Roof," August 11-15; "Arsenic and Old Lace," August 19-22; "Guys and Dolls," August 25-29. Tickets may be obtained at the Clinton Summer Theatre, 25 West Main Street, Clinton, or by calling the box office (201 735-3625.)

GARDEN

What's The Matter With Helen? (now playing) is a fascinating look at the 1930's — with Debbie Reynolds and Shelly Winters as proprietresses of a Hollywood dancing school for would-be Shirley Temples. Behind those tap dancers lurks murder.

Debbie Reynolds, in her most astonishing and outstanding performance to date, is full of non-stop pizzazz as the platinum blonde with the Jean Harlow hairdo who never remembers to lock the door. Shelly Winters is Helen — who finds religion. Both characters have sons convicted of teenage murder back in the midwest — but all that is happily forgotten with millionaire Dennis Weaver around.

The supporting cast is full of name actors, such as Agnes Moorehead, and newcomers such as Bobbi Morgan who does a very fine take-off on Alice Faye singing, "Oh You Nasty Man."

There are Hollywood insiders' jokes, and a sense of decadence underlies the Hollywood scene. Curtis Harrington directed with a fine sense of the atmosphere of the Thirties. Lucien Ballard's photography is superb, and David Raskin wrote the excellent musical score.

PLAYHOUSE & PRINCE

Summer of '48 (now playing) All the little episodes of the discovery of sex by adolescent boys are captured in this film — some are funny, others poignant. The setting is a beach town of the New England coast in the early days of World War II.

The acting is close to perfection, especially by the three boys, Jerry Houser, Gary Grimes and Oliver Conant. One of the girls is Christopher Norris, another is Katherine Amentick, and the "older" married woman of 20 or so, is played by Jennifer O'Neill, who has befriended Grimes. There is a nude bedroom scene, which director Robert Mulligan handles with delicacy. Robert Surtees' color photography is superb, and the musical score by Michael LeGrand is excellent.

ON HANDCRAFT TOUR

For Gallery 106, Mr. and Mrs. R. Lee Mauk of Blawenburg are off on a tour of the Appalachians, seeking a handcrafts that are either traditional or unusual, all for Gallery 106.

Camping along the way through western Virginia, North Carolina, Tennessee and Kentucky, their itinerary includes a woodworking studio in Brassstown, N.C.; the myriad of craft shops in Gatlinburg, Tenn. and a coop of craft workers in Pine Knot, Ky. They'll also stop at Berea College in Kentucky for a looksee at the student craft industries.

Mr. Mauk, assistant dean at the New York University School of the Arts, and his wife, Barbara, a former Princeton teacher, have long played craft detectives. They're looking for interesting patchwork items, handmade toys, dried apple dolls and inexpensive whimsies for the Christmas tree.

They hope to find some interesting jewelry, woodcarvings, and may even bring home a dulcimer for the Princetonian who wants an authentic accompaniment to mountain folk songs.

When these items go on display at Gallery 106, it will be an eye-opening exhibition of the creativeness and skill of the mountain craftsmen of the Southern Appalachians, inexplicably a continuing scene of poverty and political promises.

THE CRAFT-HUNTERS: Lee and Barbara Mauk, with son Benjamin age 2, will be scouting the craft workers in the Appalachians for Gallery 106.

BIKE SALES ZOOM

Racers, That Is, Tiger Auto on Witherspoon Street is experiencing "at least 100 per cent rise" in the sale of racing bikes. These are the sleek bikes with 10 or more speeds and low handlebars curved like the horns on Roy Mountain sheep.

The buyers, according to Jay Mironov of Tiger Auto, are between the ages of 14 and about 24 and a considerable number of them are women. This is because women's racing bikes are hard to get.

Most are buying the $96 to $125 models, with fewer of the less expensive racers appealing to our hobbyed youth.

Tiger also has bike racks for the back of the car. These, fastened to the trunk of the car, will carry two bicycles. Cost is $15 to 25.

At the recent public hearing on bicycle paths in Princeton, a woman stated that there are 17,000 bicycles in Princeton. "I can easily believe it," Jay says. "We sell about 600 a year, and we're just on the outlet."

Tiger Auto carries Raleigh and other multiple gear bikes. The Raleigh "Grand Prix," with a fully rugged frame, 10-speed gear, center-pull brakes, the "Chopper" with the highrise back and extended seat and high handlebars; the classic "Sport" a touring bike with 3-speed gear which is more or less the standard; two-wheelers for small fry, and, of course, tricycles. Tiger Auto has a solid sense of responsibility about the bikes it sells, which is reassuring.

Bike locks available in various models include the very new lock with a hardened steel link chain that cannot be cut. There's a laminated pad lock that goes with it. The chain comes in four and six foot lengths. Price is about $12, and a zipper bag holds the whole thing.

The demand for bikes is so great these days, that you can't always get exactly what you want, unless you're willing to wait for it. Tiger Auto usually has Raleigh's classics available in four colors or choose from, but not a many more. You have to take what you can get. There's a short age everywhere.

Accessories, too, are in great demand: from baskets and pouches to squeeze bulb horns and kiddie carriers. One of the neglected safety requirements for bicycles is a headlight that can cast a beam about 500 feet. Tiger has lights and reflectors. Do look into them.

KIMONOS AND TEA POTTS

At The Orient Shop. The tiny Orient Shop on Witherspoon Street is packed to the ceiling with such excellent buys in tableware, straw place mats, exotic packaged foods, lamps and lanterns that you miss a good bet if you don't stop in from time to time.

Most of the wares are from Japan, with a few from Hong Kong. Right now, the kimonos are bright and splashy; the teapots range from three sizes in pure white porcelain with a straw-wrapped handle ($2.25 to $4.95) to a delicately painted and typical oriental scene on a small pot for $7.50.

We saw a ceramic mushroom with perforated holes ($2.95) and a similar owl. Put a candle inside and add dim light to the patio. ($1.95)

If you need dishes that are simple, you'll find the white porcelain at The Orient Shop really very elegant in its simplicity. Bowls, for instance in round and octagon shapes, some with a lotus edge, all lending a calm, uncluttered background to your green salads, your mixed fruits. Prices are $1 and 2 for the various sizes.

There's a set of four matched bowls glazed in an oatmeal shade with a simple row of forgettable blue flowers around the outside ($3.95 and $6.50). Pitchers come in earthen-toned stoneware with flashes of color to lend distinction. Accompanying mugs are in a variety of designs.

For coffee round electric pot in white ceramic ($2.95), or a tall, slim yellow pot with white lid, handle and spout. (Another is black with white, and has matching, slanted bowls, cups and saucers.)

Lamp bases are ginger jars ($16 for a small one) or long necked urns elaborately scroll etched and painted ($55). All on black teak stands.

For a whimsy at the beach house, an oval frame in scroll etched bamboo (about 3/4 long). — Continued on Next Page

Instead of orange juice in the traditional four-ounce glass, how about the small ceramic "glasses" painted with softly blurred strokes of blue and touches of white and sienna. (Set of 6; $4.95 in a wood box with sliding lid.)

The Orient Shop has shallow wicker baskets for holding paper plates, and an amusing selection of chimes. Choose pagoda roofs ($4.95) or maybe the metal fish ($3.50).

And if you need small tables, or a wickerback seat for the beach, or a wicker chest with hash corners, or a serving platter that is a little different, you will want to see the shop's selection.

Another Hour Later: About an hour later, a second mobilization took place near Wilcox Hall on the University Campus. Police said there was no relationship between the two.

Police identified the victim as a 20-year-old woman from outside the Princeton area. She was able to give them a description of her attacker, they said.

POLICE CHARGE SEVEN
With Drug, Alcohol Possession. Township police have charged seven youths in two arrests with possession of drugs and alcohol.

Arrested at 11:25 Monday night in the area of Mercer Road and Battle Park by Ptl. Howard Sweeney and Ptl. Anthony Gayward were: Thomas Godwin, 18, 28 Clay Street; Freddy Skipworth, 19, Hollow Road, Skillman; Harold Merritt, 18, and Richard Hunzeker, 19, both of Trenton.

All were later released in their own recognizance by Township Judge Burton Peskin to await an appearance in Township Court.

Saturday evening at 8:45 P.M. Gayward arrested two 17-year-old juveniles and Hugh H. Hamill, 19, of Morrisville, Pa., in a car parked in a lot off Springdale Road.

They were charged with possession of marijuana — police described the amount as small — and alcoholic beverages. Hamill was released in his own recognizance; the two juveniles, one from Princeton Township and one from North Brunswick, were released to their parents.

TAX STUDY BEGINS
For Both Princetons. Borough and Township would like a mathematical tool, or formula, which could be used indefinitely to project municipal and school tax rates. In search of this tool, the two Princetons have joined in a tax-projection study.

The state's Department of Community Affairs is paying the $2,500 bill. Dr. Charles Frank and Charles Berry of the University's Department of Economics have planned the study with municipal officials, and two graduate students will do the work.

Mayors Robert W. Cawley for the Borough and James A. Floyd for the Township, in a symbolic joint press conference, said this week they hope the study will be ready in the fall.

It will provide a set of alternative projections based on several different assumptions: will a Borough parking garage be operated by an Authority or will it be municipally owned? Will the Township radically change its zoning? Will the school system indeed spend $4 million to remodel the high school or make do with what it has? Will New Jersey reform its tax structure to give rebates to towns?

General population trends and school population trends will both be examined. The study will make some attempt to determine the most likely future growth of tax rates, and projections will consider a consolidated, as well as a non-consolidated Princeton.

"We need roadmarkers to guide us into the future," observed Mayor Floyd.

"We want to know the best timing for major capital expenditures," said Mayor Cawley. "It's poor planning if the two municipal budgets peak when the school budgets are high."

School officials haven't been approached, but both mayors said they hope the schools will take advantage of the facts developed by the project.

The study began from talks held last year between Mayor

School Comparison Unfair.

To the Editor of Town Topics: This is in response to Mr. Fulmer's letter of June 24. I graduated from Princeton High School 21 years ago (Class of 1950). At the time that Mr. Fulmer says "the public schools had a most enviable reputation for excellence." And so they no doubt did, among the Western section residents and University Professors whose children were tracked into the academic program and assured of college admission.

The fact that, at that time, most students from the Witherspoon and "free streets" areas were almost automatically placed in the general or commercial programs, was not a cause for concern. In a sense, the High School was a kind of "private" school then — for students from the "right" families. My wife taught in the Township schools for a four-year period starting in 1959. She felt that it was a rather average school system, with many academically above-average students. She was surprised and dismayed to find that there were few special services for children with learning problems, and that little was done to individualize the school program.

In the past few years the two school systems have grown and merged. The Regional School system serves many more pupils than did either the small Borough or Township systems 20 years ago.

A wide spectrum of services is offered, such as pre-school programs and classes for the learning disabled, so that the needs of more children can be met. In addition, new types of classroom organization are being introduced in an attempt to individualize instruction.

Our son attended the K-3 multi-age class at Witherspoon School this year. As a result of this new organizational plan, plus the various enrichment programs available to him, we felt that he had a richer first grade program than would have been available in any Princeton school 10 or 20 years ago.

In its attempts to provide education for all children, rather than for an elite, the present school system cannot be compared with the Princeton schools of 20 years ago, nor with private schools, which take a small number of carefully selected students each year. Problems will arise in a school system as complex as ours is now, and well-meaning citizens and parents must help by informing the proper authorities in a constructive way. Unfair comparisons, or the kinds of hysterical outbursts we have read recently, will help neither the schools nor our children.

HUMES JAILED AGAIN

Exchanges Charges With Proctors. Harold L. Doe Humes, 45, is in trouble with University and Borough Police again.

Humes, who has no known address and who University police sleep on campus, was arrested on Nassau Green at 7:50 Thursday morning by Borough police headquarters. Proctor Robert McDonald charged Humes with trespassing, using loud, offensive and profane language and resisting arrest. Proctor Stephen Varish charged Humes with assault, after Humes allegedly kicked him.

Also charged was a companion of Humes, Jeffrey Perry, 24, of 10 Tulane Street. He was accused of obstructing and interfering and faces a Borough court hearing on Wednesday. Humes, in turn, agreed to plead guilty to assault against both Proctor Varish and Proctor McDonald. Humes was taken to Mercer County Jail after being served with a bench warrant for his arrest for failing to appear in Mercer County Court on charges of narcotics possession and being a disorderly person. These latter charges were made in January.

Perry is a 1968 graduate of Princeton University. He told police that the proctors decided to file charges only after he and Humes had tried to complain at Borough police headquarters.

Humes, he said, had been roughed up by the proctors when he told them that he was not trespassing on campus but merely transacting it.

LYTLE STREET SCENE

Of Rock-Throwing Gangs. Saturday morning at 1:16, Borough police responded to numerous calls that noisy groups of youth were breaking up windows in the area of Witherspoon and Lytle Streets.

Sgt. Thomas Lewis and Ptl. Thomas Michael investigated and reported finding three broken windows on the first floor offices of WWHH, 22 Witherspoon Street. Less than an hour later, another group returned and broke more windows.

At 2:33 a.m., a third group broke another window of a private residence in the area. Police estimated the number of one group at 12. There were no arrests.

CAMP MONEY STOLEN

From 16 Year Old. Borough police have charged a 23 year old man with larceny after he allegedly grabbed money from a 16-year-old girl who was planning to use it to go camping.

Paul Esposto, 9 Harris Road, walked into police headquarters Thursday and told police there he understood they were looking for him. He was placed under arrest by Det. Thomas Procaccino and then released in $200 bail. He faces a hearing in Borough Court Wednesday afternoon.

The victim told police she was standing next to the Erdman Avenue playground last Wednesday afternoon, counting her money, when a man came up from behind, grabbed her money and fled. She gave chase but lost him. She said.

Later at police headquarters,

she identified the suspect from police photographs.

WALLET IS STOLEN

While Owner Plays Tennis. A 21-year-old Cleveland Road resident had his wallet containing $10 stolen between 5 and 7 Friday night, while he was playing tennis at the Community Park courts.

Alan Kelley told police he had parked his car in the lot off John Street and locked it. When he returned, he noticed that a vent window had been pried open and his wallet taken from under the dash. Two days later, the wallet was turned over to Township police with the money missing.

TWO CYCLISTS INJURED

By Hit-Run Driver. Two teenage cyclists were injured early Saturday morning when they were struck from behind by a hit-run driver, as they were riding their bicycles on Nassau Street near Scott Lane at 12:44 a.m. There were no

THE BLIND SPOT!

QUESTION: Can YOU read between the lines?

FACT: Miss Burke, Mr. Coulter, Mr. Kirshner, and other faculty ASKED for an opportunity to tell the School Board the reasons for their job resignations. Princeton parents also requested an inquiry into the reasons.

FACT: The majority of the School Board refused to talk with our faculty.

FACT: The vote of NO-CONFIDENCE in Dr. McPherson is an even MORE SERIOUS signal of distress from our faculty!

QUESTION: Is the School Board majority going to refuse to explore the reasons behind THIS faculty action too?

FACT: The questions were unanswered — ignored. Yet, the validity of the FACTS was neither questioned, denied or corrected.

QUESTION: Is the majority of the School Board representing Princeton parents — or following Dr. McPherson?

FACT: Out of over 77 applicants for the job of PHS Principal, Dr. McPherson presented only ONE candidate to the School Board for consideration.

QUESTION: Why did the majority of the School Board accept this obvious "selectivity" without question?

FACT: Mr. McPherson attends the Executive School Board Meetings as a trio — regularly accompanied by Mr. Huchet, Director of Special Services, and Mrs. Vieland, Coordinator of Staff Development Programs.

FACT: These Executive Meetings are CLOSED to everyone except by special invitation. No other group or school department is represented.

FACT: Mr. Huchet and Mrs. Vieland are administrators and as such are supposed to be trusted liaisons between Faculty and Superintendent.

QUESTION: Why doesn't it occur to the School Board that the Faculty might be intimidated by administrators who appear to have an "in" with the Superintendent, and who appear to be hearing privileged discussions at Executive Board Meetings?

QUESTION: In fact, wouldn't an administrator's effectiveness be negated under these circumstances?

FACT: Mr. Huchet, Special Services Director, was allowed to conceive and propose that HE, as Special Services Director, take over and administer the Guidance Department.

FACT: This plan was kept a secret from the Guidance Dept. until AFTER the School Board majority had indicated to Dr. McPherson that they would approve his "plan".

FACT: To this day, the Director of Guidance and his staff have not been given a copy of the proposal.

QUESTION: How can two autonomous departments be successfully combined WITHOUT cooperative planning, shared structuring and trust?

QUESTION: What kind of Administration would tolerate or foster a SECRET restructuring of one department by another department?

QUESTION: How does this strengthen a school system and build faculty morale?

FACT: As an argument for combining services, Dr. McPherson announced at the June 15th public School Board Meeting that this proposal would save our school system "thousands of dollars".

FACT: Instead of a Director of Guidance and a Director of Special Services, our schools would have:

1. Director of Special Services
2. Chairman of Special Services — a new position
3. Head counsellor — a new position

QUESTION: Will the combined salaries of the two NEW positions be LESS than the current salary of the Director of Guidance?

FACT: Mr. Huchet's salary is currently $21,599. (Special Services Director)

Mrs. Vieland's salary is currently $21,140. (Coordinator of Staff Development Programs.)

Mr. Petrillo's salary is currently $20,250. (Director of Guidance.)

Mr. Huchet and Mrs. Vieland are due for salary increments for the 1971-72 school year.

QUESTION: Why was Mr. Petrillo's salary viewed as "the straw that broke the camel's back"?

FACT: In the past 2 years the Guidance Department was denied another staff counsellor on the basis of no money in the budget (Staff 8) During that same period the Special Services Dept. added 10 to their staff (Staff 60)

QUESTION: Why strengthen one department so vigorously and not help the other at all?

PRINCETON PARENTS, VOTERS, TAXPAYERS How big IS this BLIND SPOT?

Send postcards to our School Board members and say WE want to know what's behind the NO-CONFIDENCE vote, the resignation of our MASTER teachers AND, we need answers to our question!

Treated at Princeton Hospital was John Capuya, 15, 80 Linden Lane, who received a possible concussion, multiple abrasions and 14 sutures to close lacerations of his neck and scalp. Paul Shapiro, 14, 320 Prospect Avenue, sustained abrasions and contusions.

Lt. Michael Carnevale reported that comparison tests were being conducted at the State Police labs of paint samples and glass taken from the bicycles and the suspect's car at the scene.

Cyclist runs into car. Key in Turner, 15, 229 John Street, suffered a slight injury to his knee Monday evening when his bicycle ran into a car at the intersection of Moore Street and Henry Avenue.

Police said that the youth tried to go between a car that was turning left from Moore onto Henry and a car stopped at the foot of Henry. Ptl. John W. Hammond quoted young Turner as saying that he saw the cars in front of him but was going too fast to stop.

His bike struck the left front fender of a car driven by William Garriga, 20, of Spring Hill Road, Skillman. There were no charges.

SITE PLAN IS FILED
For Plainsboro Development, Lincoln Property Co. has filed a detailed site plan for the first section of its $70 million Planned Community Development with the Plainsboro Township Planning Board.

Board chairman Raymond G. Simonson said he hoped the board would be ready to act on the plan at its July 13 meeting.

The board has scheduled a workshop session on July 11 to discuss the plan with the township engineer and attorneys to determine if it conforms to the PCD ordinance and a set of stipulations attached to its approval of the general development plan submitted in March.

If the Planning Board approves the site plan, it would go before Township Committee for final approval. Daniel Murphy, a partner in Lincoln Property, estimated that construction of the first phase could begin by late summer if the necessary approval is obtained.

This initial plan, to be followed by several more as the company proceeds with the development of the 620-acre tract, calls for the building of 776 apartments on 46 acres between Plainsboro Cranbury Road and Plainsboro Pond. Also included is an 18-hole sized swimming pool, a pavilion area and tennis courts, set in the center of the project.

All of the buildings will be two-story and 12 of the units will be two-bedroom apartments. A 30-foot divided road with a landscaped median will be built through the center of the project.

The entire project, to be built over a 12-year period, is expected to include 5,110 apartment units, 29.5 acres of commercial development and 82.3 acres of industry. The complex will stretch from Edgemere Avenue to the Plainsboro Cranbury line, running on both sides of the Plainsboro Cranbury Road.

SEVEN ARE FINED
In Borough Court, seven Princeton area residents were fined Monday in Borough traffic court.

Judge Theodore T. Tams Jr. fined four $12 each: Jan F. Timal, 42, 404 C. Devereux Avenue, Ummig; Donald M. Ross, 18, The Great Road, red light; Charles H. Rogers, 82, 20 Hadley Avenue, and Michael

Check That Check

A rash of stolen checks are being passed in Princeton, warned Borough Lt. Michael Carnevale Tuesday. "It would behoove all merchants to be especially careful of the checks they cash," he said.

Banks have been the principal target so far in the more than half-dozen incidents. Most of the checks passed were in the $70 to $200 range. Lt. Carnevale said, but one bank lost $650. Some of the incidents involved juveniles, he said.

Police are continuing their investigation and report that one arrest and possibly more are imminent.

Strookoff, 88, Carter Road, each stop sign violations. Both of the latter were ordered to undergo re-examinations by the State Motor Vehicle Department.

Robert J. Cenerino of 1 Mile Road, Cranbury, paid $24 for speeding and $20 for a late inspection infraction. Paying $12 fines were Michael D. Winer, 17, 85 Belmont Drive, careless driving, and Robert W. Wood Jr. of Parsippany Drive, passing a stopped school bus. The complainant was the bus driver.

POLICE OFFICER CLEARED
Of Assault Charge, Sgt. Clifford Maurer of the West Windsor police has been cleared of an assault charge lodged against him last May.

A Mercer County Grand Jury last week ruled no cause for action in the complaint of 60-year-old Paul Mazur. Mr. Mazur had claimed that the officer had beaten him while he was investigating a neighborhood fight. He was hospitalized with rib injuries.

Sgt. Maurer, in charging Mr. Mazur with simple assault, had testified in turn that he had threatened him with a rake and had grabbed his collar. The officer reported that he fell on Mr. Mazur while trying to wrestle the rake from him.

Sgt. Maurer had gone to the scene when a neighbor called and reported that Mr. Mazur was harassing surveyors checking a property line. The

For all that Princeton is considered an intellectual town, it isn't what you know but WHO you know that counts. If you're looking for a place to rent.

May and August are the peak months, with people waiting in knots around TOWN TOPICS from door every Wednesday morning for the first copies of the paper. They be seige the real estate offices, place their names on waiting lists, and most effective of all send inquires around among their circle of friends.

For Princeton is experiencing a housing and particularly a rental-squeeze that matches only the post World War II days when veterans, single and married, flooded the University and the town.

"New people have to trudge up and down the street, trying all the real estate offices, one realtor says. They're looking for a place to live." "There are so many people coming in — young and old — they can't find a place to live."

Mure Units in Borough. If the town census is to be trusted, straight, the Borough alone has 1,914 rental units (out of 3,274 housing units in the town). There are 21 one room apartments, 210 two room units, 148 three room units, 487 four room units and 425 eight (or more) room units.

"A one bedroom rental for $14," says a realtor. "It just isn't here. In fact, we are rarely asked to handle apartments or houses that rent for under $200 or $300. The lower priced rentals are usually handled by the owners themselves."

Some owners don't want to advertise their vacancies in the newspapers. "The phone never stops ringing," some will say. A few are wary of Civil Rights activists, others are unwilling to rent to communal living arrangements.

"I want to reword my ad," an owner said one day. "I find that six and eight people want to rent my place for a commune."

Uncertain Tenants. An owner who allowed her tenant to sublet her small apartment to a young man found that behind him were seven other young men. "The owner feels that he has to maintain his apartments in good condition."

"His taxes keep going up. Insurance costs have almost doubled. The price of labor is up," the owner of several Princeton properties explains.

The mounting pressure on rentals in Princeton is coming from a number of angles. There are renters, such as the Township woman who found her rent increased from $150 to $200 a month — a cost she couldn't meet.

There are the Princeton old timers, who have sold the big house they no longer need. (Some of the old timers, according to one Princeton realtor, have found themselves stranded with no place to live, aware of the high market value of their house, and unaware of the shortage of apartments suitable for fixed income.)

Students Seek Rooms. The newest line of pressure is coming from the University.

undergraduate and graduate students. "It costs about $55 a month for a 20x25 sq ft quality room on campus," a senior relates, "which you have to share with two or three other guys. Singles are hard to get, and the new Quad rooms are like caskets. There's no top of this you have to pay for your meals."

"And there are a lot of students who marginally don't qualify for the student aid jobs to earn extra money. Their family income is just a little more than the cut-off line. So they're the ones who feel the pinch of university housing and food costs."

"They're funding students in town where they can have some use of the kitchen. I know some guys who rent a house — some even as far away as New Hope. . . ."

The students are finding apartments on Bank Street, in the Leigh Avenue area, in the Chestnut Street area, and in the surrounding country — sometimes in houses, sometimes over garages.

Most apartments are rented by word of mouth, the realtors say. A woman in Floris writes to a man in Princeton who owns several apartments and asks to go on his waiting list. Another walks into an owner's store, introduces herself as a friend of so-and-so and asks what he has to rent.

A graduating student hands over his apartment to a friend or two who will be at the college for another year or more. A family leaving town receives calls from friends anxious to move into their house.

Rentals in Princeton are inherited, you might say. And you'd be about 85% to 90% right.

For the rest: "I send people to the Vandewater area and tell them to ring doorbells," says one realtor. "You never know when somebody may have a place to rent."

IT'S PRETTY BAD . . . AND GETTING WORSE: That pessimistic viewpoint of the Princeton School system — in this case the High School — is the opinion of Donald Quick, 22, a former student, Bill Bentler — when asked what he would say if someone moving here asked him about the schools — replied: "I'd rather send my kids to a private school."

Question Of The Week

Question: If someone moving to Princeton asked you about the school system here, what would you say?

Where asked: Around town.
Bill Renner, Princeton Junction, employee, Acme Store: I know it's overcrowded. My little sister goes and all kinds of kids are getting high shooting up. I'd rather send my kids to a private school than Princeton High School. They can't control it there, too many drugs, wimos, cutups.

Donald Quick, 129 Jefferson Road, Acme Store employee: It's pretty bad. I just read in the headlines last week where the teachers aren't supporting Mr. McPherson and he isn't supporting them. There's too many drugs at the high school. It was pretty bad when I was there and it's worse now. It's not what it used to be. Definitely not.

Mrs. Anne Groom, Cedar Lane, educational research: First of all, it is not a coherent system. It's made up of many divergent views and philosophies. Over the whole milieu, I find a curious combination of over permissiveness and over repressiveness. Princeton likes to think of itself as innovative but actually it is quite traditional and conservative in education. I find this surprising in a town like Princeton. I'm in educational research and I find much more imaginative programs being carried out elsewhere. However, we have some excellent teachers and teaching teams. One large criticism I have of the school board, I think its politics is disgraceful. Yes, I could recommend it, but with all kinds of reservations.

Mrs. James Tarabell, 196 Bayard Lane, housewife: Same as it is all over the country: no better or no worse than any other school system. Academically, I think it is an excellent system; it always has been and I think it always will be. If you are referring to problems — there are all kinds of those, all kinds of factions.

Joan Attenborough, 779 Princeton - Kingston Road, housewife: The lower grades — fine. I have a youngster at Riverside. I think there is too much chaos in the high school. Perhaps it is structured a little bit too loosely academically. My son bombed out of the high school but then he may have flunked out of any school.

Mrs. Eleanor Pirone, 25 Carnahan Place, housewife: Not too bad, not too good. There could be some improvement in some areas. I don't know if the faculty is to blame maybe it's the children. As far as I know it's okay. I have a little boy at John With-

No Comment

A revealing fact about this week's question was not the answers themselves but the number of people who preferred to reply "No comment." Or "What can I say that would be diplomatic, that would not add fuel to the fire."

Or "Schools? Un uh. You're not going to get me to say anything on that." One woman said, "My reply would be prejudiced: we're moving from Princeton because of the schools."
One student, however, gave this explicit comment: "There's not much to say in their favor, because all the good teachers are leaving . . . Miss Burke, the head of the English department. I think some are just disagreeing with Dr. McPherson, that's why Miss Burke quit. There's a lot of terrorizing going on by the students. The teachers are trying to do something about it but it doesn't do any good."

"I'd tell them to send their kids to a private school. If they want them to go to college, Princeton High School is not the place. My sister was ranked eighth and a lot of colleges wouldn't accept her. She always had fantastic grades and she couldn't even get a scholarship."

erspoon and he likes it there. I met his teachers and I like them too; I think they were very nice.

Robbie Kraft, Ridgeview Road, student at Lawrenceville: I've heard that a lot of people are unhappy and I think like all high schools in the country, Princeton High is in need of a lot of changes, stemming from misplaced priorities by the board. I think people are getting hung up on the age-old views of what a school should be and they're lagging behind. They're no longer relevant to the present situation, and a lot of students are losing out — jobs, what have you — because of the bad things going on in the schools.

Mrs. Everett May Jr., Mont gomery Township, housewife: Tell them to move to Hopewell Township. All the hearsay I get about the Hopewell school system is better than the hearsay I get about Princeton.

Mrs. Marianne Tobias, Han Drive, housewife: I'm very happy with it. I have one in High School, one in Community Park and one in John son Park. All like it very much, but I like Johnson Park best.

The Rising Generation

Eric Solomon, Class of 1971, Princeton High School

Apathy and the High School Community

Teachers call students apathetic. Students call teachers apathetic. Parents call teachers apathetic. Students call parents apathetic. What is apathy? And just as important, toward what is one apathetic?

Apathy is a lack of feeling, or the absence or suppression of passion or emotion. In other words, the term can be subdivided into two categories, apathy without feeling and apathy with feeling. Apathy without feeling is indifference. To be apathetic without feeling is to be apathetic in the most widely recognized sense. One just doesn't care. The issue presented is important to someone else, it is someone else's problem. The individual obviously feels that he is not directly affected by this issue.

For example, not too long ago a proposition was brought to the Princeton High School Student Council and student body concerning the possible construction of a new parking lot. Little resistance came from those who would eventually oppose such a construction, and building began. Why were people so silent? One possible reason is that people don't see the connection between specific actions in their everyday lives and larger concepts which they value. Thus, indifferent at an early stage, when something fruitful might have been accomplished, a too-late, too-little "protest" on Earth Day, 1970, was largely ineffective. (One result of "negotiations" resulting from the "protest" was the recommendation that the lawn of the church across the street be used for strolling and sitting and engaging in conversation. What has happened since? Obviously people have not cared enough about this idea to follow through. Apathy?)

Are teachers indifferent? Within the last three months two amendments to the Student Government Constitution were passed by Student Council and forwarded to the teachers for approval. Perhaps nobody really cared but, in any event, only a tiny minority of the teachers voted. Of course, the teachers couldn't have felt even indirectly affected by the first amendment, which concerned suffrage in Student Council. (Why should teachers care about student government?) But the second amendment, which set a time limit on the period allowed for the principal to consider Student Council motions, could eventually directly or indirectly affect the teachers. One must wait and see if anyone will pay for their indifference.

An example of parent and community indifference can be found by examining turnouts for elections. Substantial numbers of eligible voters never vote. Possibly the non-voter feels that no matter who ends up, for example, on the School Board, the system will never significantly change.

The other type of apathy is apathy with feeling. There are people who do feel directly affected by certain issues, and believe that action is needed. But, like other apathetic individuals, these people do not take action. They do not move to aid or support their beliefs. Apathy is measured by inaction. A person who does feel but does not speak up or act will outwardly appear just like the indifferent apathetic. Thus, an apathetic person who feels, but does not act, is just as useless to a cause as an apathetic person who is indifferent.

How can people who care, not act? One might be afraid to take action, fearing repercussions. One might feel powerless, fearing that others will decide in any event. One might not be sure that one's opinion is right, fearing responsibility for unfortunate consequences of action. Students in Princeton High School mutter and grumble that Student Council hasn't the power to do anything. So these complainers do not participate in student government. Many do not take the Princeton High School Student Court seriously, believing that this institution will never do anything of any great merit. People remember, or try not to remember, the student "strike" of 1970, when many students felt they were getting their big chance to change the school. (The "strike" started an anti-war protest, but ended as an anti-school protest.) This school year started and nothing had significantly changed (What had they expected to change?) except for the creation of an Administrative Advisory Council, composed of students and teachers whose job it is to advise the principal. Many now consider this council a bureaucratic monstrosity, a barrier between Student Council and the principal. Students point to this outcome as an example of their powerlessness, as an excuse for inaction.

Thus apathy begets apathy. The more powerless people feel, the more powerless they are.

While it is true that everyone is apathetic to something, few are apathetic to everything. People devote their time and energy to all sorts of causes, though many of these causes are not specifically intended for the public good. An intellectual devotes his time to his studies. An athlete devotes his time to his sport. Neither is apathetic to his work. So the question becomes: Is it possible to rechannel some of this energy into common interests and concerns? We cannot expect everyone to agree on solutions, but we can try to understand what is happening around us and its consequences. And, with this understanding, we can support solutions which seem reasonable to each of us. And we can act.

HADDED GIVEN CONTRACT
By West Windsor Board. Dr. John F. Hadden, Superintendent of Schools, received a three-year contract from the West Windsor-Plainsboro Regional Board of Education at its regular meeting last week.

invoked by either party, Dr. Hadden will be granted tenure on January 1 of next year.

Mr. Duncan commented that the board had been pleased with the superintendent's performance over the past 1½ years. Among his accomplishments cited were the superintendent's role in the planning of the new secondary school and his activities in the area of public relations.

The Board, in other action rejected all bids for the demolition of the Coward House, the one remaining structure on the secondary school site. Instead the Princeton Junction Volunteer Fire Department will use the building for practice drills for the firemen prior to demolishing it by fire. The time schedule for this demolition will be coordinated with the plans for development of the site.

The Secretary of the Board announced that parents who wished to be reimbursed for transportation costs of non-public school students must submit certificates of attendance to the board office no later than Wednesday June 30. On the recommendation of the committee on Administrative Office Space the board empowered the Superintendent to investigate the steps necessary to sell the Penns Neck School property and report back at its July meeting.

The Superintendent was also authorized to proceed with the rental of office space for the administrative staff, which is necessitated by the need for additional classroom space in the Maurice Hawk School and additional office space for the Administrative staff.

Dr. Robert Hiltendbrand Director of Instruction discussed the summer school program, the curriculum committees in language arts and science that will be meeting during the summer. Staffs for these programs were appointed. All interested residents are invited to attend a meeting on curriculum at the Maurice Hawk School at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday June 30.

He skipped a grade when he came here and he still took it easy. I don't think it has anything to do with IQ; I think they make them work harder in Chile.

Richard Olson, 107 Bayard Lane, playwright: It has a good reputation in terms of placing students in college. I've heard of these mini-seminars, which I think are good. Any knowledge not sought by a student is soon forgotten.

Betty Butler, 203 Loetscher Place, teacher: I know there is a controversy over the appointment of the new principal. It seems her credentials are very adequate so I don't see why there is a problem. I feel I could recommend the system. I have some friends who teach in Princeton and they speak highly of it.

Princeton Teams Fade to .564, Lowest Won-Lost Mark in Seven Years

For the first time in seven years, Princeton's winning percentage in athletic activities fell below the .500 mark, as Tiger teams won 30 contests, lost an even 100 and tied three. The percentage of .564 is the lowest for the Orange and Black since 1963-64, and is only the second time in a decade that the mark has been below .500. Freshman tennis, the class of 1974 also reflected a downward trend, winning 100, losing 63 and tying four for a .511 mark compared to .652 a year ago.

League championships in wrestling and in tennis furnished the bright spots in an otherwise mediocre picture. The wrestlers, led by Pete Watzka, a Cornell out- fielder, posted a 6-0 mark in Ivy League competition to capture their second straight title. The netman, losing only to North Carolina in 13 matches, moved to the top of the Eastern Intercollegiate Tennis Association.

A second place finish at the outdoor Heptagonals in track and a 22-7-1 season for the baseball team, which fell just short of a league crown, also were high spots. Twelve var- sities shared above the break- even point while six dipped be- low it.

In addition to tennis (12-1) and wrestling (12-3), others to turn in highly successful sea- sons were golf (12-2-1), light weight crew (8-1), indoor track (5-2) and cross country (7-3). Hockey, Princeton broke foot- ball (1-5) showed the least success.

Penn. Harvard Toughest

Pennsylvania, which has shown major resurgence in a number of sports — pri- marily basketball, hockey, swimming and track — gave Princeton more trou- ble than any opponent in the Ivy League during the academic year just ended. The Tigers won only six of 20 contests with the ers, and were likewise below the .500 mark in com- petition with Harvard, which perennially tops the league in overall won-lost records among the eight colleges. Princeton broke even with Cornell in 18 meetings.

Four other Ivy opponents were dominated by the Orange and Black during the year: Brown, with which the Tigers were 6-4-1; Co- lumbia, 13-4; Dartmouth, 7-4; and Yale, 11-0-1.

could not be rescheduled af- ter rainouts. There is a lea- gue rule which says that to be eligible for the championship, a player must have 39 at bats. The rule was waived, how- ever, inasmuch as Watzka's inability to play the full sched- ule was not Cornell's fault but reluctance on the part of the two service teams to go back to Ithaca for new playing dates. The vote which created the tie then followed.

DONOVAN HONORED

By Baseball Coaches. Ed- ward J. Donovan, who has just completed 20 years as Prin- ceton University's head baseball coach, was honored by his col- leagues this month with se- lection as District II Coach of the Year.

The American Association of Collegiate Baseball Coaches cited Donovan for guiding his 1971 nine to a record of 23 vic- tories, 7 defeats and a tie. In addition, for the second year in a row, Donovan saw one of his players named to the All-American Team, pitcher Jack Hutson duplicating catcher Arnie Holtberg's accomplish- ment of last spring.

A native of Newport, R.I. and a 1932 graduate of Holy Cross, Donovan has compiled a baseball record at Princeton of 259 wins, 216 losses and 8 ties. His 1953 squad won the championship of the Eastern Intercollegiate League and three of his teams — in 1965, 1970 and 1971 — have topped the 20-victory level.

In addition to handling Tig- er baseball, Donovan coach- es the varsity "B" football team in the fall and handles numerous scouting assign- ments. From 1948 until 1968 he coached freshman basketball with marked success, achiev- ing an overall record in that sport of 180 triumphs in 236 games. Two of his teams turned in undefeated records, the 1948 quintet winning all 13 con- tests and the 1956 team sweep- ing 11.

Prior to World War II, Don- avan was coach of baseball and basketball at Rogers High School in Newport, R.I. As- signed to Princeton as a mem- ber of the naval contingent during World War II, he remained at the University fol- lowing the end of hostilities. During his career here, he has also served one year as coach of 150 pound football and five years as assistant baseball coach.

Individual Achievements. Among the individual highlights of the year were pitcher Jack Hittson's election to the College Baseball All-American Team; halfback Hank Bjorklund's 1,001 yards rushing to become the first Princeton back to top 1000 in a season; Brian Taylor's se- lection by the Ivy League basketball coaches as Ivy Sop- ravirator of the Year; a regional championships for high jumper Gene Halton indoors and hurdler Andy Kappel out- doors; establishment of 11 new Princeton swimming records, three each by seniors Jack Garretson and Vaughn Ho- ward; and end Pete Hauck's three touchdown pass recep- tions at Brown to tie both an Ivy and a Princeton single game mark.

ings in the Business Softball League in past years, and last week's contests between eastern and western teams proved to be no exception.
Educational Testing Service wound up on the short end of an 8-4 score in its game with RCA A, and in the process fell into second place in its division behind McGraw Hill, which beat western division leader Cities Service, 6-2. The loss dropped Cities into a three way tie for first with RCA and RCA Astro, both of whom won.

Tom Connolly and Al Salkin each had three hits and Salkin and Bill Proccatini blasted home runs for the victorious RCA A squad. Wally Reichert outpitched Bones Gilbert on the mound. Bill Decker and Will Lane had two hits apiece for ETS.

Held to just six runs several below its average, McGraw Hill limited Cities to just two on six hits on the pitching of Tom Wood. John Johnson broke up a 2-2 dead lock in the bottom of the sixth with a two run homer, and Mick Beuchman added an insurance marker with another run hagger.

RCA Astro guaranteed itself a share of first place when defeated FMC, 13-7. Jim Willits, Tom Gorman and Tom Young all had three hits for the winners, while Mary Kravitz, Jim Gorman and Young hit home runs.

RCA B found inter-division play to its liking, beating American Cyanamid, 5-4 for only its second win of the season. Pitcher Ron Henderson did it all, banging out four hits at the plate, the same number he allowed on the mound in the other division, losing, 12-9, to Firmenich. Al Duffield had three hits, Bob Pagano, two, and Bill Rosan smacked a homer for the winners. ERC drew a bye in the 13-team league.

B.D. BLUE TRIUMPH
In Lacrosse Openers, Red defeated Green, 15-4, and Blue topped Navy, 9 to 4, in opening games last week in the Princeton Summer Lacrosse League.

Mike Skinner was the big gun in Red's victory, scoring six goals and contributing two assists. Phil Nollner and Scott Varsadas, two PHS players, added three more apiece. Tim Cleary had two goals and Pat Connolly one to complete the Red scoring. For Green, Tony Reish scored three goals and had one assist, while Brooks Morhinno had one goal and one assist.

Phil Matthews and Coley Donaldson each fired home four goals to account for all but one of Blue's nine points. Dave Marder had the other Mike Lederman, two goals, and Joe McGuinn and Andy Markoe accounted for Navy's four.

Those interested in participating may still sign up, according to league director Hawley Waterman. Complete information is available from him at 924-6923.

LUCAR ROLLS ON

In Babe Ruth Baseball, undefeated Lucar Hardware, which took the first-half title with a 5-0 record, continued its streaking pace by winning the second half opened in the West Windsor Babe Ruth Baseball League.

Joey Czeslowski picked up his third victory of the season on the mound as Lucar defeated the Lions Club team, 8-4. Czeslowski also added his cause with three singles, while other bug hitters for Lucar were Gary Fowler with a triple and two singles, and Jeff Drummond with a triple and a single.

In the other second-half opener, Harbor Air Freight blanked Will's Shell, 4-0, as Greg Christensen pitched a two-hitter to notch his third victory of the season. Timely singles by John Costas, David Duncan, David Kodner and Robbie Duncan added up to two runs for Harbor in the third inning and two more in the sixth.

In last week's story about Lucar clinching the first-half title with a 15-0 victory over the Lions, credit for the victory was erroneously given to Mike Carlucci. Actually, the winning pitcher was Joey Czeslowski, who also hit a homer.

CONTE'S, IVY INN VIE
For Softball League, Conie's Bar and Ivy Inn were scheduled to clash this Wednesday evening at Community Park to decide which would be sole owner of first place. Both entered the game with 61 records.

Both Conie's and Ivy escaped with one run victories Monday night to set the stage for their showdown. Conie's came from behind to score four runs on five hits in the seventh to steal a 10-9 victory over Grover's Hustlers. Wes Cawley batted 4-for-4 for the victors and Jack Roberts, batting .571, added three more runs in a first-inning home run. Gerald Grover homered for the losers in the third to stake them to a temporary 3-3 lead.

Ivy Inn needed an extra inning Monday before it managed to eke out an 11-10 victory over Varsity Sport. The lead was carried throughout the game.

In the eighth, with two down and the bases loaded, Bob Padden lined a shot to right center that scored Bill Bartolino with the winning run. Padden also connected for two more hits to lead the Barnum at the plate.

Varsity stayed in contention with three homers, two by Jerry Perpetua. Jerry's second four-bagger came in the third with two men on. Jim Pirone also homered in the sixth to give Varsity a short-lived lead. Dave Britton got the win.

In Monday's third game, Teague & Hinds ended a two-game losing streak by beating Nassau Conover Motors, 11-4. Don Alexeyev, Bucks McPherson and Cap Crossland all hit for the victors and George Tucker tripled to provide all the fire power. Pete Young inched to pick up the win.

Bob Friedman's triple high lighted a two-run sixth inning for the Motormen. Friedman scored later on a hit by Don Britton. Tom Bromby took the loss.

26 HITS, 13 RUNS: Last week the Hitless Unbeaten 26 hits against Teague & Hinds' pitching as they outslugged the team, 13-11. Al Carter and Robert McGee each had four hits for the Hustlers. Carter picked up the win. Steve McLean and Fran Brooks combined for six hits for the losers. Rick Haxelbald led Ivy Inn to a 4-3 win over Nassau Conover with three hits. Ted Raley won it with a two-out rally that saw it load the bases on a single by Alby Tolo. Bill Bartolino's double and a walk. Tony Pirone then doubled up the middle to send home the winning runs. Tom Bromby, David Sweeney and Larry McHugh each tapped two hits for the Motormen.

In a final game, the Country Square extended its record at 3-3 with a 6-2 win over Varsity Sport. Shop.

Battling Leaders: In a slow pitch league, strikeouts are rare and batting averages are inflated. After six games, 29 were batting .500 or more, at

The greatest suspense story ever told.

It's all about the amazing new BMW Bavaria. 6 cylinders. 2.8 liters. 130 mph. A little over $5,000. Wundercar!

It starts with an entirely new kind of German car, tearing along a country road at speeds up to 130 mph. The kind of road that would pounce any other car a mile high at half the speed.

It's the new BMW Bavaria. The car doesn't just hold the road — it's nailed to it by the most sophisticated suspension system ever built into an automobile. This system is independent all around, with MacPherson struts up front and semi-trailing arms in back. It also features our unique multi-jointed rear axle that can smooth out the worst roads anywhere.

The driving force behind it all is BMW's fantastically efficient short-stroke engine, that's been the subject of more pens of more automotive experts than any power plant since internal combustion began. It's the chef d'oeuvre of those talented BMW engineers of ours.

As a matter of fact, it's a toss-up which one comes first, the BMW engine, or the suspension system that some drivers claim is even faster than the engine itself. But why don't you decide? Test-drive BMW's new Bavaria. At Autobahn Motors now.

BMW's 2800 cc engine is a masterpiece of engineering. Suggested retail price as shown $5,015. 3600 cc 6 cyl. engine, U.S. importer Hoffman Motors Corporation, 375 Park Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10022. BUSINESS In Princeton

BUTTON, BUTTON . . .
"Th u m b o d y," succeeding where Napoleon and Hitler failed, has invaded the British Isles.

From the First National Bank the thumbprint caricature dubbed "Thumbody" moved to label buttons given to First National patrons. It was designed to remind bank visitors that First National treats everybody like "somebody"—making each customer as individual as a thumbprint.

Within a day of the button announcement, the initial group of 5,000 was almost depleted. Now, another 5,000 are on hand and some of these have reached Scotland.

When the buttons were first offered on May 26, a group of Scottish high school students had just arrived here for a three-week stay with Princeton host families in an exchange program. The young visitors spotted the "Thumbody" buttons in newspaper ads and on lapels around town and decided the little caricatures would make great souvenirs.

So, the Scottish youths asked their Princeton peers to stock up on "Thumbody" buttons and to bring them overseas on the second phase of the exchange program. The Princeton students left for Scotland on June 17.

Now, "Thumbody" and the Princeton youngsters are enjoying a stay in the British Isles and are probably fielding a lot of questions about life in the U.S. and the "Thumbody" movement.

Actually, the answer to one of the questions is that "Thumbody" is a trademark and a copyrighted product of the Princeton advertising agency of Dragoset and Petraglia. "Thumbody" also appears on auto litterbags and colorful posters.

HAVE ONE: Patricia Zapicchi, First National Bank teller, hands over one of the popular "I'm Thumbody" buttons. Stressing the bank's personalized service, they have been adopted by exchange students from Scotland. "Thumbody" litter bags and posters are available free at any First National office.

Surround yourself with trees, grass and history.

There's plenty of it all here on what may be the highest spot between New York and Philadelphia. Certainly it's one of the most historic, it's not the most beautiful. Just 15 homes will be custom built from your plans or ours including Greenacres Country Club Golf Course. Each will share in a sweep of common land... and in views and privacy all but vanished these days. It isn't all this worth $50,000 or more?

TIME AND LOVE

have been well spent on this West Windsor Colonial. Large living room, formal dining room, modern kitchen, paneled family room with door to terrace. There's a separate laundry, a powder room and a very private study all on the first floor. Four good sized corner bedrooms and 2 full baths on the second floor. Beautiful plantings and trees plus a manicured lawn. All this for only $46,500 or just want to get back to Nature, then this is for you. Nothing rustic about this in-town Princeton hideaway. In fact it's quite elegant and far more spacious than a word picture can paint. That elusive quality of "charm" describes the house. Intriguing rooms — paneled living room with fireplace, separate little bar, dining room, a wonderful brick-floored studio room with floor to ceiling windows giving magnificent view of the outdoor garden. A bedroom and bath off the main hall requires no steps; another big bedroom with adjoining glamorous bath/dressing room is on a separate level and has a little balcony of its own to enjoy the view of the woods and garden. Any creative person will love it. Offered at $68,500

IF YOU'RE ARTISTIC BY NATURE...
